

New York University Campus Director

The New York City team of International Students Inc. (ISI) is actively searching to fill the missionary position of New York University (NYU) Campus Director. This position is highly strategic for the cause of global missions and disciple-making because of the large numbers of students represented. NYU has the largest international student population in the United States, approximately 18,000 students including those in their OPT year. International students make up approximately 20% of their student body. We currently have a strong relationship with NYU and partner together through a variety of programs and events, so the door is open and the field is ripe for harvest.

Objective

To develop and coordinate a strategy to give every international student on one or more campuses the opportunity to hear and respond to the Gospel, and to disciple them for future ministry.
